

The Johnson Family

Thank you to whoever will be assisting us this year. A little about our family:

Cha Cha has been dealing with Sickle Cell Disease since birth, as it is a genetically inherited blood disorder. She has fought very hard to be here and continues to fight. Overall, I try to see our family as any other family, despite my daughter's illness. We argue, fight, and we live like any other family, at least I hope. Yes, times can be very stressful in and out of the hospital, but I thank the Lord above every day for pulling us through even through the most trying times. At the moment, I am in nursing school trying to enhance my career for my children. Cha Cha has dreams of being a nurse as well, one day. I just want to do what's necessary to keep my children happy and comfortable, even when life throws us a curveball.
